Agreement Said to Have Been Animals in an Underground Sta-Reached by Which They Will Have Connection Between the Old and New Bridges.

Although officials of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company deny the truth of the statement, it is generally believed among those who watch the street railway situation that the Brooklyn and neighing of horses and the pounding of Manhattan companies held a conference with the powers of the newly elected administration and agreed to allow the place and an effort was made to break agreed to allow the place and agreed to allow the place agreed to a oklyn Rapid Transit a connection

By the terms of the agreement, it is said, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit will across Delancey street to the Bowery and down the Bowery and Park Row to the old bridge. It is said that the Man-mattan lines sanctioned the agreement on condition that the Brooklyn companies change their cars to conform to those of the Metropolitan.

How much further the harmony plan between the lines of the two boroughs will go is a matter of much speculation among Wall street men and others interested in traction stocks. The old rumor of a conscildation of all lines was revived, but the truth of this was officially denied.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company has any understanding by which it will be permitted to construct lines through De-lancey street and the Bowery from the Williamsburg Bridge to the Brooklyn Bridge. I also deny that it has any other understanding with the incoming admin-

"Will the Brooklyn Rapid Transit try to construct lines between the two bridges?" was asked.
"I don't care to talk about that," said Mr. Winter.
J. N. Calderwood, First Vice-President and General Manager of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, also denied the report.
"It is absolutely false," he said. "The road has received no such assurance from anybody."

JAMAICA TO FIGHT

Citizens Will Hold Indignation Meetings to Protest Against the Payment of Doubles Fares to the B. R. T.

The fight of the people of Jamaica for transfers from the surface cars to the slevated road at Cypress Hills was continued this morning when the workers were on their way to Brooklyn and Manhattan. Spurred on by their vicbory last night, determined men deded the transfer slips and stubborn by remained on the cars when they were refused.

The double fare to Jamaica followed the action of the Board of Aldermen in ordering the B. R. T. Company to cease running the heavy "L" trains over the surface lines beyond Cypress Hills. Those who suffer say it is mere ly revenge. Yesterday the old surface cars were brought out and placed in come again, but there were no transfers, as in the days when they were used before. Angry men and women stormed at the conductors, but the men in uni-form were powerless. They had in-structions and had to live up to them.

structions and had to live up to them. The passengers were in a less friendly mood when the rush hours of the evening came, and saveral times the police had to interfere to prevent violence. Meany persons refused to leave their seats, and the company finally capitulated and issued transfers.

Indignation meetings were held in the street, and others of a more organized sature have been arranged for Jamaica. Magistrate Henry Furiong to-day sent a letter to Vice-President Calderwood, telling him that every promise of the Br. R. T. Company had been broken.

ENNIS SANE, WILL BE ELECTROCUTED

Experts Declare There is Nothing Mentally Wrong with Brooklyn Policeman Who Brutally Murdered His Wife.

William H. Ennis, the Brooklyn police man who killed his wife, has been de-clared same by the experts and will be put to death in Sing Sing on Monday

The crime for which Ennis was convicted was a brutal one. So brutal in that many at once eadd the man must be insene. His drinking and habits generally had caused his wife to leave him. fused to pay it and was threatened with earrest.

On Jan. 14, 1902, he went to the home of his mother-sin-say at Rockaway avenue and Noian's lane and shot her while she was in bed. He then took his wife, and, leading her into another room, told her she must die. He sat her in a chair before her two younger sisters, and when she asked time to pray he shot her through the heart. The mother-in-law lived.

A great crowd collected about the between the Manhattan ends of the stable. The horses within seemed to be in a panic and for a few minutes the screams of a human voice could be heard above their cries.

After all efforts to break down the barred doors of, the stable had failed, John Donnelly, the proprietor of the place, was summoned and the doors opened. There were twelve Torses in the place and four of them had broken from their halters. Those that were still bound had almost kicked down the partitions to their stalls. They quieted down immediately the doors were

Mr. Donnelly then investigated the cause of the disturbance. He found it when he came to stall 13, the only empty one in the stable. There lay the body of Henry Pitz, the watchman of the stable. He had ended his life by ominent in the affairs of the Brooklyn cutting his throat and breast with a prominent in the affairs of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit backed up the report of the conference, President Edwin W. Winter denied it absolutely. He said:

"I deny absolutely the report that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company has any understanding by which it will be permitted to construct lines through Delancey street and the Bowery from the Williamsburg Bridge to the Brooklyn Bridge. I also deny that it has any other understanding with the incoming administration."
